The Tellington TTouch includes bodywork (ttouches) and groundwork (confidence course). In this second session we will be reviewing the ttouches covered in the first workshop, practising some further ttouches and introducing you to the groundwork exercises.

In the groundwork exercises the dog is taken through a series of obstacles. In this way it resembles an agility course, but is different in that the dog is walked slowly and the aim is to develop awareness and confidence. As Linda says: "We find we can develop a dog's willingness to focus and listen, to wait for our signals and to overcome aggression or timidity. Your dog learns how to think and cooperate because he has to concentrate on a given task. Work with dogs and horses shows that attentiveness, coordination, cooperation and balance are increased noticeably." Walking on different surfaces can prepare the dog for the unusual or difficult surfaces he might meet in everyday life, and increase his confidence in approaching novel objects.

The workshop is informal and the activities are fun - you will have the opportunity to practise ttouches and groundwork with each other and with your dogs during the day. So you'll be able to go away with some more practical skills that you can then continue with at home.
